

BROW MICROBLADING AFTERCARE INSTRUCTIONS

2 hours after treatment and for the first 36 hours (bedtime the following night) apply cooled, boiled water to the treated area every 3 hours with a clean cotton wool pad. Pat dry with a clean tissue and apply the ointment with a cotton bud. Pat off the excess with a clean tissue. I don't expect you to do this through the night of course! So last thing at night and first thing the following morning.

Make sure you have a clean pillowcase from day 1 of treatment. On day 3 after treatment just apply the ointment 3 times a day – morning, half-way through the day and before bed. Apply with a clean cotton bud, removing with a clean tissue each time. Aside from during your aftercare session, try not to get the area wet, but if you do, pat straight away with a tissue. It's a good idea to put the ointment on before you wash your hair or bathe and then pat off excess ointment once finished.

The normal healing period is between 7-10 days. Once healed you can resume your normal cleaning regime and go back to your usual moisturiser.

Please be aware that over time and after several top-ups, the strokes may soften and not look as crisp as when first applied to virgin skin.

Your follow-up session should be booked no sooner than 6 weeks after your initial treatment.

During the post-treatment period, please try to avoid the following

- Applying any makeup to the treated areas
- Getting the treated area wet while showering / bathing
- Sunbathing, using sun beds or swimming
- Facial treatments, including eyelash or eyebrow tinting, plucking, electrolysis etc
- No Botox near the treated area(s) for at least 2 weeks post treatment
- Using any form of depilatory products

It is vital that you keep the treated areas clean to avoid infection. Always wash your hands before application of ointment. If infection does occur, don't worry, but if necessary, seek medical attention.

Please note there could be as much as a 20-30% loss of pigment once healed and possible patchiness, which will be corrected during your next session. If you follow this aftercare carefully there should be little or no scabbing for Brow treatments, however, different skin types can heal differently, so if you should have scabbing don't worry, it's just the way your body reacts to treatment. Clients with an oily complexion may find that the hair strokes, once healed, are not as crisp or straight after the procedure.
